TREATING SOIL FOR SUGAR CANE IS TOPIC TODAY

Annual Convention of Sugar Chemists Association Ends Tomorrow Night

The treating of soil as pertains to the cultivation of sugar cane was dealt with at today's meeting of the Hawaiian Sugar Chemists' Association in two interesting talks, and formed the basis of discussion during the morning session. All the papers read at the meeting shortly will be published in pamphlet form and undoubtedly will form valuable additions to the libraries of those persons interested in or connected with the sugar industry in Hawaii. The first speaker today was P. S. Burgess, a chemist at the sugar planters' experiment station, whose topic was "Soil Bacteriology." Mr. Burgess' talk was illustrated with charts and diagrams. He told in a brief but highly interesting way of effects of bacteria, and described the great general divisions of soil bacteria. Another interesting talk was that by Dr. A. L. Dean, president of the College of Hawaii, who spoke on "Soil Fertility." This was a general statement, delivered in a plain and untechnical manner, of the problem of soil fertility and what constitutes it. Sampling of Fertilizer.

The process of sampling fertilizer used in the growing of sugar cane was outlined by C. C. James, while J. E. Bielsa presented a lengthy paper on "Evaporation and Sugar-Bollings."

At the meeting this afternoon a paper entitled "Clarification and Filtration" was read by G. Giacomelli.

"On the subject of filtering," he said, "it is disappointing to report that new machines and systems, which a few years ago were holding out good promises, had to be discarded. In this case we find the Kopke clarification system discarded at Koloa after two years' trial, for the full juice and for scums only, and the Kelly and the Sweetland presses at Punahoa."

The business end of the convention will come to a close tomorrow morning. The final discussion will be on the subject of "Methods of Chemical Control for Sugar Houses."

The annual banquet will be held tomorrow night at the Young Hotel, and will be followed by a "gridiron" on the experiences of a mill staff under investigation by an expert. A burlesque which is an annual feature.

FUNERAL CHAPEL NEW NUUANU CEMETERY PLAN

If sufficient funds can be secured by public subscription a chapel for funeral services is to be erected at Nuuanu cemetery. This is a statement made by E. J. Lowrey, president of the Oahu Cemetery Association, who says that many requests for such a building have come in, and that plans for one have been drawn up. The chapel would seat about 100 persons, and would be adjacent to the crematory. It would be open to people of any creed or nationality who cared to hold services in the cemetery.

ONE OF SOLDIER JOYRIDERS GETS AWAY, STILL FREE

R. McCarthy, private in the 2nd Infantry, who escaped from the city jail by climbing over the wall after being arrested on a charge of stealing the automobile of Probation Officer J. C. Anderson, is still at large. McCarthy was seen last night near the Oahu Railway depot by an officer and the provost and city police are endeavoring to find him today.

McCarthy, with Privs. F. Gross, James Taring, D. Johnson and E. Lookhart, took Anderson's automobile from in front of the compound in Iwilei, where Anderson had left it while he searched the district in company with John Marcellino and Archibald K. Aona, his assistants, for boys and girls reported to be frequenting the vicinity.

MORNING ON CHANGE

A spurt of new activity seems to have hit the sugar stock market today, the dealings both at the session and between boards exceeding those of any other day this week. The old favorites are still market leaders, Olan, McBryde, Oahu Sugar and Pioneer. Of these Pioneer, despite a heavy demand for all, is the only issue to show any appreciable rise during the last 24 hours, most of the stocks registering not even fractional variations in price.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—F. SCHNACK: I am pleased to see the supervisors undertake the paving of Kalaheua boulevard without attempting to enforce the unpopular, odious and unworkable frontage tax provisions, but while they are doing it let them not forget the fifth district where I would suggest School street as worthy of immediate attention.

—A. P. TAYLOR: We are receiving inquiry every day as to when the Great Northern will be here, and what they will do in the way of an agency. Many of the local citizens have asked us regarding accommodations, which shows that the coming of the Great Northern will be of great interest locally.
